CAR OVERTURNS ON YORK PIKE

And Five Men are Injured. Running at Night without Lights Blamed for Serious Accident. One Man in Hospital.

When the lights failed on a Kline touring car owned by L. M. Alleman, of Littlestown, and driven by an employee of his garage, the machine turned turtle between Abbottstown and York about two o'clock this morning and the five occupants were all more or less seriously hurt.

Winfield Lippy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Lippy, was taken to a York hospital for treatment; John Robinson was taken to his home in Littlestown, suffering from several broken ribs, and the others were Mr. Menker, driver of the car, Charles Blocher, and Charles Long. The car was badly damaged.

The five young men had gone to York early in the evening to hear the concert by Sousa's Band. They started on the return after one o'clock and had gone some little distance when the lights went out. Before Mr. Menker could stop the car it had overturned, supposedly through going into one of the deep gullies at the side of the road. They were not near any village at the time and it was some little time before the men could get any aid.

They finally reached a farm house and there obtained shelter for the night. This morning Lippy, who is about 21 years of age, was taken by the others to York where he was placed in a hospital. His injuries, while painful, are not expected to be serious. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Lippy, went to York this morning to ascertain his exact condition, the information received at Littlestown being meager.

Mr. Robinson is at his home suffering from several broken ribs but it is not thought that he was hurt internally. The other occupants of the car were all more or less badly injured.

BIGLERVILLE

Biglerville—Mrs. William Spangler is spending some time at the home of Fillmore Bream.

Miss Laura Wolford is a visitor in town this week.

Dr. John Hoffman, of Honey Brook, is visiting relatives in town.

Misses Mabel and Susie Black, of Philadelphia, were called to the home of their father, William H. Black, at Flora Dale, by the death of their aunt, Mrs. Beck.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook, of Bedford, have returned home after spending a few days here on account of the death of Mrs. Rufus Lawler.

Harry Quickle, of Gettysburg, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Quickle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hess, of Gettysburg, spent Sunday with the family of W. H. Lady, East York street.

Miss Ruth Deardorff, of Mummansburg, who was visiting at the home of Fillmore Bream, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Bream and son, Kenneth, of Harrisburg, returned home after spending a week at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bream, East York street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griest and daughter, Alice, of York Springs, spent Sunday at the home of Dr. Hildebrand.

Miss Eliza J. Griest, of Fishertown, Bedford County, recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson.

ARBOR DAYS

County Schools are Asked to Observe Event.

In compliance with the proclamation of Governor Brumbaugh, Superintendent Roth urges all the public schools of the county which will be in session on April 16 or 23—arbor days—to observe with fitting exercises the annual occasion. Trees should be planted wherever possible and the day celebrated in appropriate fashion.

PREPARE FOR CURB MARKET

New Stall Holders Being Sought, but Former Attendants will be Given their Old Locations if they Want them.

Market Master Emmons is receiving numerous applications for concessions at the Gettysburg curb market, which will open for the 1915 season on Saturday morning, May first, at four o'clock, or as soon thereafter as the first trucker's wagon makes its appearance.

Mr. Emmons has announced no single day for receiving these applications, and assigning the places about the Square, but he will hold until May first all former stalls for the renters of last year. Those market men who wish to rent by the month or by the quarter, and want their last year's positions, can secure them by advising the market master before that time. It is expected that practically all the old stall holders will again be on hand and at their regular places.

In addition, Mr. Emmons is making an effort to increase the number of market men. He has visited some truckers who never came to market in other years and has sent letters to a number of others. To date three new yearly renters have been registered and the market master feels confident that this will be materially increased. Last year's market was the best in the history of the town and it is the desire to have this year's establishment more than equal that record.

The market this year will be conducted along the same lines as last, with one additional concession to the truckers. When the market master deems it advisable, he will permit them to leave their stalls at 8:30 and peddle their fruits and vegetables on the streets of town. Last year the time for this was at hour later, and market men generally desired the earlier permission. Application will have to be made in every instance for this earlier leaving time.

LIGHTNING HIT BONNET

Enters Bandbox and Smoke Denotes Passing of Easter Creation.

The new Easter hat of Mrs. Ehrhart, wife of the Rev. W. H. Ehrhart, of Glenville, through a freak of a bolt of lightning, was destroyed by fire, on Saturday night. Lightning struck and damaged the chimney of the parsonage, passing down into the bed room. Smoke was observed and on investigation it was revealed that it was coming from a band box in the closet. When the lid of the box was taken off it was found that the recently purchased hat had been consumed by fire.

Mrs. Ehrhart, before her marriage, was Miss Pearl Oyler, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oyler, Chambersburg street. Rev. Mr. Ehrhart is a graduate of both College and Seminary.

CUT OUT WOODS

Place with Battle Associations Falling before Axe.

Work was started on Tuesday at cutting down the timber at the old Hospital Woods east of town. The tract originally was about twice as large as at present but the portion of woodland north of the York Pike was cut out some years ago. Many persons regret to see the cutting out of the woods and believe they should have been saved as an important point of interest in connection with the battlefield. The place was bought some time ago by N. H. Musselman.

LOCAL PASTOR TO ASSEMBLY

Rev. Franklin E. Taylor, of Gettysburg, Named as Commissioner from Carlisle Presbytery to Larger Gathering at Rochester.

At this afternoon's session of the Presbytery of Carlisle, Rev. F. E. Taylor, pastor of the local church, was named as one of the three commissioners to the General Assembly which will meet at Rochester, New York, on May 20th. The appointment is one of the most desirable made by Presbytery. There were six nominations and the other two successful candidates were: Rev. James J. Glenn, Dickinson, and Rev. George S. Rentz, Hershey. The alternates are Rev. Will H. Dyer, Millerstown; Rev. George R. Bernhard, Carlisle; and Rev. George A. McAllister, Chambersburg.

At this morning's session it was decided to hold the fall meeting of Presbytery at Newville, beginning the third Tuesday in September. Rev. E. E. C. Curtis, pastor of the Westminster Church, Harrisburg, was chosen moderator.

The reports of the individual churches were heard at the morning meeting, together with the reports of the committees. Conditions generally were stated to be most satisfactory.

On Tuesday evening the following resolutions were presented by the Rev. S. Wylie, of Middle Spring, and carried unanimously.

"The Presbytery of Carlisle, in semi-annual session at Gettysburg, on this 13th day of April, 1915, composed of 63 ministers, 243 elders, and 10,028 members, make record that we are unalterably opposed to the Brooks high license law, giving to our judges the right to determine who shall or who shall not sell intoxicating drinks to their men.

"That we most heartily commend the heroic effort put forth by our worthy Governor, Martin G. Brumbaugh, to secure a local option law at the hands of the present Legislature.

"Resolved, that these resolutions be sent by the clerk of Presbytery to each of the senators and representatives in the bounds of this Presbytery, namely Lebanon, Dauphin, Cumberland, Adams, Fulton, Franklin and Perry counties.

"Resolved, that the example of Presiding Judge Seibert, of Perry County, in refusing all licenses to sell liquor in Perry County, be especially commended by Presbytery and the same be sent to this honored judge."

At the opening session of the Carlisle Presbytery on Tuesday afternoon the following officers were elected for five year terms, Rev. Robert F. McClean, Mechanicsburg, stated clerk; Rev. George Fulton, Mechanicsburg, permanent clerk; Rev. T. J. Ferguson, Silver Spring, treasurer. Rev. George S. Rentz, Hershey, was made temporary clerk for a term of one year.

Rev. Dr. Thomas C. McCarrell, of Middletown, is presiding over the sessions as moderator of the Presbytery. New ministers were added to the roll in the persons of the Rev. J. Marshall Rutherford, who was received from the Presbytery of Philadelphia, to be pastor at Waynesboro; and the Rev. Mr. Urquhart, from the Presbytery of Detroit, who will serve the church at Greencastle.

The Rev. Jacob V. Koons, who will be graduated with this year's class from Princeton University, was licensed as an evangelist, and will take up work in the Panama Canal Zone. S. Reynolds Diehl, of Cash-town, was licensed to preach.

Tuesday evening the sermon was preached by Rev. George S. Rentz, of Hershey, and addresses were made by Rev. Robert M. Ramsey, of Newport, and Rev. James E. Clarke, associate secretary of the College Board. The music included a male quartet, and a violin solo by Mr. Sammel.

SEEKING HELP FOR UNHAPPY FAMILY

Would Establish Fund to Aid Widow and Nine Children of Man who Lost his Life in Dynamite Explosion. Have Made Start.

The prompt response which is always forthcoming hereabouts when an appeal for aid is issued for a worthy cause is again in evidence, this time in a plan to establish a trust fund for the maintenance of Mrs. Amos Slothour who is left with nine children without any means of support, as the result of her husband having been instantly killed in an explosion of dynamite near Abbottstown.

A subscription list is being circulated and it is proposed to place the proceeds with some banking institution to be paid to the widow and family in monthly installments sufficient to provide for the necessities of life, so long as the fund accumulated shall last.

This case is an especially sad and appealing one. Mrs. Slothour is left with the care and responsibility of nine children, ranging from a few months to sixteen years of age and is without means. A liberal contribution administered in the manner proposed will enable her to keep her family together perhaps until they become of wage-earning age.

A benefit performance for this family, was given by the Hedge Holmes company, at the Hanover Opera House, last Saturday, but as the total amount realized for Mrs. Slothour was less than $30 it will not be sufficient for more than immediate needs, although it was most gratefully received by Mrs. Slothour.

Any one who would like to contribute to the support of these fatherless children may forward their subscriptions to the proper persons through the medium of The Times.

MCDONNELL--DOUGHERTY

Wedding this Evening at Home of Bride's Sister.

Miss Grace Dougherty and Luther McDonnell will be married this evening at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Baker at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Hughes, on Steinwehr avenue.

The bride will wear a gown of white satin and carry a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Mary Smith, will wear a gown of white net and carry pink roses. The bridesmaid will be attended by his brother, Carroll McDonnell.

A reception will follow the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. The intimate friends and relatives will be the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell will reside in the McPherson building, Baltimore street. Mr. McDonnell is associated with his father, John McDonnell, in the paper hanging business. He is a graduate of Gettysburg High School in the class of 1908.

REV. C. F. MILLER

"King" Miller Died at his Home Last Week.

Word has just been received here of the death of Rev. Carl Frank Miller, which occurred last Tuesday at Elderton, Pa. He was generally known about Gettysburg as "King" Miller. He was graduated from college in 1910 and received his theological education at the Gettysburg Seminary. At the time of his death he was pastor of the Mt. Union, Gastown, and South Bend churches.

The cause of his death is not stated. He leaves his wife, one son, two sisters, and three brothers.

ARGUMENT STILL ON

Two Classes Want Student Government Retained.

At a meeting of the Junior class of college this afternoon it was decided to make an effort to have student government retained at college and a committee was appointed to confer with the faculty on the best plan to be adopted. The Freshmen have also acted favorably to retaining student government, so that these two classes are now opposing the policy taken by the Seniors and Sophomores.

SCOUTS TO GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Will Show Fathers, Mothers, Camp Fire Girls, and all Others who are Interested, Just what they have been Doing.

Seven months ago ten Gettysburg boys formed a troop of Boy Scouts. They have increased the number two hundred per cent. At least fifteen hikes have been taken in this time. Three have become Second Class Scouts. Twenty are now Tenderfeet.

To show the people of Gettysburg their work and to celebrate their seven months of re-organization, an entertainment will be given in St. James Chapel on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to which all are invited.

A practical demonstration of all Scout activity and wood craft is to be given, including knot tying, fire-making without matches, signaling and first-aid. All persons interested in the welfare of the sons and daughters of Gettysburg are urged to attend. Special reservation will be made for all the Camp Fire Girls.

On March 30th the Point Contest conducted by the Scouts ended. More than 3,000 points were scored by the boys. The finish was very close. The four prizes of this contest will be awarded on Thursday night. Rev. J. B. Baker will speak as to the value of Scout work. The Scoutmaster, John H. Keller, of Gettysburg College, will have charge of the exercises, explain the Scout activities and award the badges to the Scouts.

A collection will be taken during the meeting to provide for a camp this summer. This is a great occurrence in a boy's life, when he lives in the woods alone and keeps himself.

ARENDTSTVILLE

Arendtville—George Culp is getting the material together to build a new house this summer.

Twelve or fifteen years ago our town had fifty five milk cows. Now we can hardly count twenty five and the milk station was moved from this place to Biglerville. If some farmer who has a good herd of cows, would start a route through this town and Bechtelsville he would find ready sale for his milk.

The rain last Saturday and Sunday has made a considerable improvement on the grain and grass fields.

Edgar Smelser, who has suffered with spinal trouble the last few weeks, is able to be up and about again in the house.

Mrs. Laura Pettis spent several days in Philadelphia last week.

The peach trees are very full of buds and are not yet frozen.

Dr. Wm. E. Wolff has purchased a nice black pony for the amusement of his children.

Dr. C. A. Sheely, with his wife and son, are visitors in the homes of A. J. Miller and Ephraim Sheely.

The funeral of Philip Bittinger was attended by a large concourse of friends and neighbors. Those who attended from a distance were, H. C. Bittinger, of Marathon, Iowa; Mrs. Adam Beecher and Edward Beecher and family, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. David Byer and daughter, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Black, of Fayetteville; Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Rouzer, Mr. and Mrs. John Thoman, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Orner, Samuel Robinson and son, all of Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Swartz, of near Harney; Sherman Funt, of York Springs; Daniel Guise, Michael Guise and Ira Bream, of Bermudian.

POSTPONED

Advisers Meeting will be Held Saturday April 24.

The meeting of the advisers of the Boys' and Girls' Agricultural and Domestic Science Leagues of Adams county, which was to have been held at the Court House on Saturday of this week, has been postponed to Saturday, April 24. Not only the advisers, but the boys and girls and any others who may be interested, are invited to attend. It will be held in the afternoon and will be under the direction of County Superintendent Roth.

GIVES OUT FRENCH PEACE TERMS

Lost Provinces Must be Restored and Militarism Crushed.

BRITAIN TO FIGHT TO END

Public Opinion in England Rejects Calling the War a Draw—Germany Still Defiant.

Queret, France, April 14. — "Germany, ignorant of the soul of France, now is being punished for her mistake," was the declaration made by Premier Viviani at the opening of the departmental council of Creuse.

"She thought to find," he continued, "a divided, frivolous nation, but she met an iron wall, against whose heroic resistance the power of her army was broken. Then, behold, the iron wall moved, supple and unbreakable, toward the western front, crushing little by little the army whose chiefs were not prepared for so long and bitter a struggle."

"The French nation, misunderstood and despised, has arisen ready to pile sacrifice on sacrifice with millions in arms, preparing for Germany's chastisement. We are certain of victory—the victory of justice. We want Europe free, Belgium liberated, our lost provinces restored, Prussian militarism crushed, since the peace of the world is irreconcilable with its sanguinary whims. We shall accomplish this task with our allies. We shall write not only in the history of France, but in the annals of humanity a page which our sons will read with emotion and pride."

British Demand Militarism End.

London, April 14.—It is generally taken for granted that even if grounds should exist for believing peace overtures were being, or were about to be, made, any official acknowledgment of the act would be withheld by governments concerned.

It also assumed that pending a definite step toward discussion of peace terms, all the belligerent governments would proclaim their respective inability to accept any settlement that their enemies would agree to.

The statement from "the highest authority," that England will never consent to peace until Germany is beaten, and Premier Viviani's speech at Queret, may be regarded as the official reply of France and Great Britain to what are considered to have been Germany and Austria's "feelings."

Democratic governments like those of France and Britain, however, could not carry on the war if unsupported by public opinion in their countries. To get the trend of public opinion, as distinguished from the views taken in official circles, the correspondent has interviewed men of wide social and business interests and opportunities of information, and all feel that lasting peace can only come when Prussian militarism is crushed.

RAIDER TO MAKE REPAIRS

Kronprinz Wilhelm Leaving Badly and Boilers in Poor Condition.

Washington, April 14.—The German embassy transmitted to the state department a formal request of Captain Tüfelfelder, of the auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, which entered the harbor of Newport News, Va., Sunday morning, for permission to have his vessel examined to see what repairs were necessary to render her seaworthy, and also for permission to have these repairs made.

The request is similar to that submitted recently in the case of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich when that vessel put into Newport News.

ITALY DRAWS NEARER WAR

Only One Chance in 100 For Peace, Says Rome Paper.

Geneva, April 14.—According to the Gazette del Popolo there are 99 chances out of a possible 100 that Italy will participate in the war.

The paper states that reservists belonging to all classes from 1890 to 1912 are being called gradually to the colors. Belief is general in Switzerland that Italy has already enforced partial mobilization.

General Pau is Confident.

Paris, April 14. — General Gerald Pau, who returned to Paris after a journey to Russia, Serbia, other Balkan states and Italy on a political mission, had this to say of his trip: "I bring back from my long journey of two months the best of impressions and absolute confidence in the final success of the arms of the Triple Entente."

French Loss Above 700,000 to Feb. 15

Paris, April 14.—The losses of the French armies in the present war up to Feb. 15 are estimated unofficially as follows: Killed in action, 150,000; wounded, 245,000; prisoners, 300,000; disabled, 25,000; permanently disabled, 30,000.

Eight Trawlers Missing.

Grimsby, Eng., April 14. — Eight British trawlers, carrying approximately eighty-five men, are long overdue. It is feared that they have been sunk in the North sea by mines or German submarines.

KAISER DIRECTS IN CARPATHIANS

With the Armies Fighting the Russian Invaders.

Petrograd, April 14. — The report that Kaiser Wilhelm is personally directing the operations in the Carpathians is believed here to be correct. It is not asserted that the Kaiser is actually at the front, but he is believed to be near the rear of the Austro-German lines.

According to the Bourse Gazette, five Austrian armies are operating independently in the effort to prevent the Russian advance toward the Hungarian plains.

The first is in command of General Weirach in the region of the Nila river. The four other armies are under command of Archduke Eugene Frederick and Generals Boierovitch, Pfanzner and Boehm-Ermolli.

Say Russians are Checked.

Vienna, April 14.—The following official communication was issued at army headquarters:

"The Russian offensive, which began on March 20, has now been arrested. When the attempted eruption during the Easter holidays, in the Labozza and Ondawa valleys failed, the enemy again attempted to advance in the wooded mountain regions on both sides of Uzsok pass, but all attacks during the last few days were repulsed with heavy Russian losses.

"On the remainder of the front the situation is unchanged."

U. S. PAYS EVELYN'S LOSS

War Risk Bureau Settles First Claim Arising From the War.

Washington, April 14.—The government war risk insurance bureau paid its first claim for losses due to the European war.

A treasury warrant for $401,000 was drawn in favor of Harriss-Irby & Vose, of New York, owners of the American steamship Evelyn, sunk off the coast of Holland, supposedly by a mine, Feb. 20.

The Evelyn was the first American boat lost during the war. Of the amount paid, $301,000 was for her cargo of cotton and $100,000 for her hull.

The bureau to date has earned premiums amounting to $1,453,000 out of a total of premiums paid up to April 7, amounting to $1,733,000.

DROP AIR BOMBS ON HAMBURG

French Aviators Set German Barracks on Fire.

Copenhagen, April 14.—French aviators bombarded the German port city of Hamburg on Monday. The barracks were set on fire and a number of Germans are reported to have been wounded. Hamburg lies upon the Elbe river.

Airmen Bombard Muelhausen.

Paris, April 14.—Six French airmen bombarded Muelhausen, the southernmost German stronghold on the river Rhine, and Hasbestein. Although subjected to a heavy fire, all escaped.

U. S. Commissioner Killed by Train.

York, Pa., April 14.—John F. Kell, United States commissioner in this district, either fell or jumped from a Pennsylvania railroad train near Rohrerstown, Lancaster county, and was killed. The body was found by a trackwalker after a special train had left York to search for the missing man, his absence from the train not having been noticed until it reached York.

CABINET TAKES UP BERNSTORFF NOTE

Bryan Prepares Reply to the German Charge.

ASSERTION IS RESENTED

Many Believe Kaiser Will Be Told Ambassador Has Rendered Himself Persona Non Grata to U. S. Government.

Washington, April 14.—An informal draft of the reply of the American government to the German note attacking the neutrality of this country was placed before the cabinet by Secretary of State Bryan.

It deals directly with the criticisms which Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, made of the actions of the American government, and is said to be fully as strong and vigorous in terms as the note from the German embassy.

It was reported that Count von Bernstorff will be ignored when the reply is ready, and that it will be sent directly to the Berlin foreign office.

The German note called upon the United States to place an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition to the allies, and assumed that America "has accepted England's violation of international law" in preventing foodstuffs and other shipments from reaching Germany.

Asked about the memorandum recently presented by the German ambassador, President Wilson had no comment to make other than that a reply was being prepared by the state department.

It would surprise no one well acquainted with the views of the administration if the American reply were couched in language amounting to a hint to the German government that Count von Bernstorff, by his course in the present instance, following various alleged violations of the proprieties by the embassy staff, has rendered himself persona non grata to the American government.

It could not be learned whether the state department had construed the note as an indication of a changed attitude by the government at Berlin, which, earlier in the war, offered no objections to the trade in arms and ammunition between this country and the allies.

The president is denying himself to all visitors except those who come at his express invitation, and is devoting all his working day to a careful study of the foreign situation in all its bearings relating to the United States. The reply to the German note and the conduct of Ambassador von Bernstorff will receive his direct personal attention.

Bernstorff Denies Responsibility.

New York, April 14. — Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, reiterated that the communication recently handed to the state department by the German embassy was delivered by order of the German government, and was not an expression of his own personal views.

"I was no more responsible for this communication," he said, "than simply to act as the messenger who delivered it."

DYNAMITE WRECKS HOME

Mildred, Sullivan County, Scene of Disastrous Explosion.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 14.—Dynamite which was "planted" under the home of Michael Lenz and family, in Mildred, Sullivan county, and exploded, tossed the parents and their children from their beds, wrecked their home, as well as two hotels, two stores and a lodge hall.

The entire front of the Lenz building was blown up by the explosion. The hotels of Joseph Hetsman and Peter Bolt, the stores of Michael Donovan and John White, as well as the Knights of Labor building, were partially wrecked.

200 SAVED FROM FIRE

Fire Drill in Insane Asylum Worked Without a Hitch.

Chicago, April 14. — Two hundred convalescent patients of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane were rescued from fire which destroyed a rambling frame structure used as an annex to the institution at Dunning, northwest of the city.

The fire drill worked without a hitch. Some 2800 other inmates of the institution were guarded to prevent panic or undue excitement in the main building a few hundred feet away.

President Wilson a "Newsboy."

Washington, April 14. — President Wilson has been elected an official newsboy. A group of "newsies" from Baltimore called to thank him for a letter of congratulation he sent them recently and to inform him of his election to their association.

GIRL HELD FOR BIGAMY

About to Wed Fifth Man in Six Months When Arrested.

Scranton, Pa., April 14.—After having become the wife of four men and becoming engaged to the fifth within six months, Filmonia Belle, an unusually pretty Italian girl, was taken to the Luzerne county jail, having been arrested in Carbondale.

Nine months ago she came to this country and three months later she became the bride of a Pittston man. Three days later she ran away and married a second man. Then she became the wife of a Scranton man and once more lived to Forest City, where she said "Yes" to a young man of that city.

She left the latter's home in a couple of weeks and was about to marry a Carbondale man when the police made the arrest.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT MEET AT FUNERAL

Ex-Presidents Exchange Formal Greetings.

New Haven, Conn., April 14.—Attended by men of prominence in the literary and public life of the country, including former Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, the funeral of Professor Thomas P. Lounsbury, of Yale, was held from the college chapel.

Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of the university, conducted the services.

Much interest was shown in the appearance of the two former presidents, as it was the first time they had been in each other's presence since they became opposition candidates for the presidency.

The greeting of the two was neither warm nor cold. When Colonel Roosevelt met Professor Taft he shook hands and said: "I'm glad to see you. How is Mrs. Taft?" "She is quite well, thank you," was Mr. Taft's reply. He then inquired after Mrs. Roosevelt's health and the colonel replied that she was also quite well. Each asked the other to remember him to the wife of the other.

WIND TWISTS WAREHOUSE

Saved From Destruction by 25,000 Bushels of Grain.

Waynesboro, Pa., April 14.—Twenty-five thousand bushels of grain being stored in it prevented the warehouse of Frank Miller & Son, of Waynesboro, from being blown to pieces by a wind of cyclonic effect.

The building was blown eleven inches out of perpendicular, a part of the roof was torn off and the whole structure so wrecked that the frame work must be replaced, and all the machinery was damaged.

The peculiar effect of the cyclone was shown in a yard close to the warehouse. A coop with chicks in it was blown some distance and all the chickens killed. A coop alongside it was undisturbed.

Cunningham Succeeds Bigelow.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 14.—Governor Brumbaugh named Robert J. Cunningham to succeed Edwin M. Bigelow as highway commissioner. The appointment became effective at once and was presented to the senate for concurrence.

Mother Kills Four Children and Self.

Spokane, Wash., April 14. — The bodies of Mrs. Luther A. Leonard and her four children were found dead in the family home here. The police reported that Mrs. Leonard had poisoned her children and herself.

King Albert Thanks Wilson.

Washington, April 14.—King Albert of the Belgians has sent the following message to President Wilson: "I thank you heartily for the greetings of friendship you sent me on the occasion of my birthday."

RUSSIAN ARMY HAS BEEN WELDED INTO SPLENDID FIGHTING MACHINE

Peasants, Enthusiastic, Become Good Soldiers With Surprising Rapidity.

Life They Lead Develops In Each Some Degree of Native Shrewdness.

The Russian army is gradually shaping into one of the mightiest fighting machines the world has ever seen, writes Granville Fortescue in the London Telegraph. Before the outbreak of hostilities it was but the raw material of an official fighting force. Now, after seven months of trying field work, it becomes in the widest definition of the word an army. Millions of untrained moujiks have been molded into a homogeneous organization and trained to carry on the infinite variety of detail demanded by a state of war.

The Russian peasant develops into a good soldier with surprising rapidity. In the first place, he is a splendid physical specimen. Again and again when passing a Siberian or Odessa regiment I have noticed with care separate soldiers and found them all to be pictures of health. In trench fighting perfect physical condition is absolutely necessary. I know of an instance where a detachment had to remain in the same trench six days and nights, constantly under fire. The water was above their ankles. They had only such scanty rations as they had been able to bring into the trench with them. During the six days sleep was out of the question except for snatches taken leaning against the side of the trench.

A few of the men came out with mild frost bite. Except for this, after a few days' rest, the detachment was as fit as ever. In his daily existence the moujik meets privation and exposure in every form, so the conditions of warfare do not affect him extraordinarily. His life has taught him how to make the best of the worst weather and that hunger and fatigue are all in the day's work.

Shrewdness of Peasant.

Judged from a physical standard the czar's subjects are all latent soldiers. On the mental side they are not wanting. The life they lead develops in each of them some degree of native shrewdness. No farmer in any land is without a fund of knowledge by which he solves most of the problems he meets in daily life. The Russian peasant has this same shrewdness, and as is common with all men trained to live in the open, he knows the country. This quality is especially important to soldiers. Russian officers assure me that they are often astonished at the way their men find back trails over terrain absolutely unknown to them. All seem to have what we call in the vernacular "bums of locality."

There is no state of existence that makes greater demands on the faculties than war, and their constant exercise, where a mistake may mean death or captivity, has quickened the mind of the peevish peasant. Also he has begun to appreciate the sport of war. A corporal and his squad in the somewhat informal Russian way were asked to see their commanding officer. It was the night before the Russian new year. Only that day they had been brought back from the front to the reserve trenches.

"What is it, my children?" The Russian captain is the father of his company. "Tomorrow is New Year's day, well born." The corporal shifted from foot to foot like a small boy asking an unusual favor.

"Yes?" "We should like permission to go out tonight and catch a few of the fox. It would be a new year well begun." It was just the sort of request I should have expected from some of my Irish noncommissioned officers in other years, but it was not what I was led to expect in the Russian army. These men had found a hidden trail leading into the enemy's lines and were so content.

SAVES DEER FROM WOLVES.

Hunter Comes to Rescue of Buck Making Last Stand in Corner. A battle between two big timber wolves and a buck deer was interrupted by Gus Harrisonson, a farmer, who was on his way to Gilbert, Minn.

Harrisonson declares that the wolf had the buck cornered in a wood lot with his back against a tree. The buck, with head down, was on the defensive and made no attempt to attack his enemies. Harrisonson, who was unarmed, went back to a farmhouse to borrow a rifle. On his return the wolves scented him and ran in different directions. Harrisonson shot at the wolves but missed. The deer did not move for some time after the wolves had departed.

Women to Be Employed in England. The Great Central Railway company in England has this week begun experiments to see how far women can be employed as railway porters, to see free men of military age. Other lines will follow the Great Central's example. It is expected, if the women prove equal to the work.

What It Depends On. A man's as old as he feels, they say, but the age he feels depends a good deal on what he's been doing.

TAFT FINDS BOYS HAVE NEW SPIRIT

Ideal of Nation Now Is High, Says Ex-President.

COLLEGE LADS PROVE THIS.

Have All Their Old Mischievousness and Ambitions, but in Addition Have Idealized National Impulse in a Noble Standard of Clean Living and Public Service.

Ex-President William H. Taft, Kent professor of law at Yale university, has a new vision of young American manhood. Out of the business turmoil, industrial unrest and uplift movements with which the spirit of the United States has tried to express itself in the past fifteen years Mr. Taft has sensed out a new instinct in the new generation.

The discovery is one of the reasons, doubtless, why Mr. Taft is a younger man today than when he left the White House, for he is younger, and he is happy; he admits it himself. Speaking to a newspaper man the other day, the ex-president said: "The college boy of today, as I know him, is a better boy than the college boy of my time." Mr. Taft was graduated in 1878; if anybody else has forgotten it, he hasn't. "He has higher ideals of his duty to himself and the world. The college boy of today has mischief, high spirits and a fighting spirit, too, and ambition as we knew them, but to them he has added a very high standard of clean living and public service; he has idealized the new national impulse."

"In a small, concentrated college community it is becoming impossible for a man to win the prizes—I do not mean scholarship distinction, but the awards of the honor of leadership—unless he is clean and high minded and has a pretty well fixed purpose to make himself useful to somebody beside himself and the members of his immediate family. The spirit of the country has changed a great deal of recent years. This new generation of young men shows the permanent stamp of the change. Older men are groping for it; the younger men are being molded in it."

Leaders Must Be Clean.

"In my day the test of college leadership was merely the power to lead. Among these young fellows, which it is my privilege to know, mere leadership is not enough; the boys will not accept a leader unless they believe him to be clean and unless they believe that he is trying to do things which are worth while and not things which are merely exciting or amusing for the moment."

"The whole outlook to me is encouraging. The college boys are boys who are more earnest and higher minded than were the boys of my time in college. It is only fair to assume that the same holds good in a sense of all our coming generation."

Mr. Taft told of individual young men who have come to him from the Yale employment agency on his requisition for men to perform what he spoke of mysteriously but significantly as "public service involving a great deal of moral courage." He said that he was tremendously impressed in these interviews to find what devotion to unselfish ideals of doing right and accomplishing public good he found in these boys.

Is Strict Disciplinarian.

As a judge of youthful crimes and misdemeanors the former president is a strict disciplinarian. His vote is always for a stiff sentence if a boy has done anything really wrong. If it is merely a question of playing ball on the campus and breaking a window or for some other such over-energetic amusement he will pass it off with a laugh. But if it involves reckless living, rowdiness, anything mean or yellow, no penalty is too severe to gain his vote.

Of Mr. Taft's enthusiasm as a baseball fan all America has known since he first began rooting behind Walter Johnson at Washington. There is a special double seat for his comfort at the Yale field. Never is it vacant if he is in New Haven when a game is going on. If Mr. Taft was a whole souled fan in witnessing professional baseball he is as wild as a flapping hatted sophomore in New Haven. Nor is his boyish enthusiasm limited to baseball. His own youngest son could not get mad quicker or more joyously sound the call to victory than does the Hon. William H. Taft on the field, in the gymnasium or on the observation train beside the river. He lets all that is in his healthy heart come out, and he doesn't care who sees him do it.

THREE MOST NOTED WOMEN.

Miss Addams, Miss Davis and Miss Nuttall Named For America. Mrs. Zekia Nuttall of Coconino, Mexico; Miss Katherine B. Davis of New York and Miss Jane Addams of Chicago have been selected by the woman's board of the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco as the three most noted women of America. They will be guests of the board at the exposition for one week.

Mrs. Nuttall was chosen for her work in archaeology, Miss Davis for work in prison reform and Miss Addams for social settlement work.

Popular Individual.

"When a man brags about his own work," said Uncle Eben, "he finds that everybody is willin' to help him have a good time."

Farewell, Winter

Enter now the joytime! Gray winter packs his grip. He gets a parting blessing, "God speed you on the trip! Take your blizzards with you—your regiments of snow. But first we'll turn the fiddle for a hand-around ere you go!"

(Keep the fire blazing—The farewell times in view, But the roof we will be raising! In a thunder whirl with you!)

Enter now the joytime! The winter fires you made With home sweet warmth and cheerfulness throw summer in the shade. And all the stories that you told—we ask not were they true, Oh, winter, for your heart of gold, just one more whirl with you!

(Keep the fire blazing! Till the bells of day! The roof we will be raising—We'll dance our friend away!) —Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

PURPLE PANSY BRIGADE LATEST BRITISH CRAZE.

Flower Is Sign Wearer Has Some Friend Among Wounded at Front.

One of the latest war crazes in English society is the "purple pansy brigade." If you have an intimate friend or relative wounded at the front you wear a buttonhole of purple pansies. The result has been an unexampled demand for the purple pansy.

Now that there is almost no one who has not a friend among the casualties, practically all the women at fashionable gatherings wear a cluster of the sympathetic flower, and some of the men do the same. At some of the smart luncheons at the big hotels the effect is most curiously mournful.

But the purple pansy also serves as a useful conversation opener. "My dear, what friend of yours has been wounded?" leads to all sorts of interesting, mysterious, sentimental inquiries. The purple pansy, therefore, is a great relief, although it does indicate suffering on the part of somebody else.

In London the demeanor of the smart crowd is distinctly more cheerful as the war proceeds. Conditions, the mere prospect of which seemed unbearable, have now become second nature. It would be wrong to say it is possible to get used to having one's relatives killed or wounded. But one is inclined to think that when bereavements come in mass, when more or less every one is suffering, the shock and horror diminish in intensity.

WANT BIG JULY 4 FETE.

Philadelphians Plan Special Celebration This Year.

Plans for celebrating July 4 next, not only as the nation's birthday, but as the fiftieth anniversary of the conclusion of the civil war, have been launched by the Fourth of July committee of city councils in Pennsylvania, which will ask an appropriation of $50,000 from the state and the increase of Philadelphia's appropriation from $60,000 to $115,000.

President Wilson and members of his cabinet, as well as the governors of the forty-eight states of the Union, members of congress and other officials will be invited to Philadelphia Sunday, July 4, to attend services in Old Christ church. To have President Wilson press an electric button connected by wire with the churches throughout the country and give the signal for the simultaneous singing of a hymn of praise has been suggested as one of the features of the day.

The celebration proper will be held on Monday, July 5, beginning in the morning at Independence hall, where President Wilson will unfurl a large American flag, whose stars will be contributed separately by the governors of each state of the Union. The banner will be made in the Betsy Ross house.

BLONDS GET COMFORT.

America Finds It Can Supply All the Needed Dyes.

The feminine world, which had been alarmed over reports that the supply of henna and other hair dyes was cut off because of the war, is now somewhat relieved by the discovery that henna is not exclusively a product of Turkey, but grows as well in North America.

The price of pyrogallol acid, which is used with henna, has been raised 25 per cent. It has heretofore been manufactured in Germany, but the increase in price has induced French manufacturers to undertake to supply the demand, and so all is well in the boudoir.

APT NAMES AT WEDDING.

John Bold Weds Miss Fearing, and Miss Hugg Attends.

Miss Bertha R. Fearing and John R. Bold were married by Justice of the Peace Coward at South Norwalk, Conn., the other day. One of the witnesses was Miss Anna Hugg.

Town Clerk Smith was so pleased by the names on the certificate that he would not take his customary fee.

Boy Is College Lecturer.

Norbert Wiener, the Harvard boy prodigy, who at nineteen is a doctor of philosophy and master of arts, has been appointed to give a course of lectures on "The Theory of Knowledge" at Harvard next year. He is now at Cambridge university, England.

NOTABLES IN THE LIMELIGHT

General Radko Dimitrieff, Russian Army Leader.

General Radko Dimitrieff, who commanded the czar's forces at the siege of Przemyśl, was Bulgarian minister at St. Petersburg when the present war broke out. He resigned his portfolio to take service under the czar. Although one of Bulgaria's distinguished soldiers, General Dimitrieff has lived a great part of his life in Russia. He was born in Eastern Rumelia in 1859 and in 1880 was sent to Russia to complete his military education, having already served as a lieutenant in the Rumelia militia. He returned home in 1885 and took part in the revolution that made Eastern Rumelia a part of Bulgaria. In the subsequent war with Serbia he was appointed chief of staff of the eastern army corps and served with gallantry.

The following year he showed his Russian sympathies by taking a leading part in the overthrow of Prince Alexander. But when a counter revolution ended in Prince Ferdinand being placed on the throne Dimitrieff was compelled to flee to Russia, where he remained until his pardon in 1908. On his return to Sofia he received a commission in the Bulgarian army and eventually became chief of staff.

In the war of 1912 against Turkey he served as commander of the first army, under the supreme command of General Michael Savoff, and won fame by his victory at Kirk Kilise, in the first battle of the war. When the war between the Balkan states broke out the following year he was made commander in chief. General Savoff declining to serve. At first he conducted a brilliant campaign, but eventually Bulgaria was compelled by exhaustion and the intervention of Roumania to give up the fight.

Governor of Tennessee.

From farm hand to chief executive of the state of Tennessee is the record of Governor Thomas C. Rye, the first Democrat in recent years to regain the state from Republican control. The story is told that when a youth Tom Rye trained a red bull calf to saddle and used him as a mount when going a-courting or to church. On his first appearance on this queer steed some young fellows began to gibe the young farmer. Leaping from his saddle, Tom tackled his tormentors and put them to flight.

The future governor was educated in the common schools of Camden, Tenn., his native town, and then went to Charlotte, Tenn., where he became a student in the law office of his uncle, Major T. C. Morris. In two years he passed his examination and returned to Camden to take up the practice of his profession. Mr. Rye became a leading lawyer in his section and established an enviable reputation for kindness and sympathy for the distressed. This reputation has followed him through his life. His popularity stood him in good stead when he entered politics. He served several terms as district attorney of his district and gradually acquired prominence in state politics. So when at last he secured the gubernatorial nomination he entered the campaign with spirit and won handsily from his Republican opponent.

CHAPTER IV.
The Yukon Surrenders.

There was a long minute of silence. Shorty was the first to speak.

"Come on," he said. "We'll take it as well as we can. I'll stay here any longer. Shorty and Kit tramped back through out of snow to the head of the rapids and cast off the boat.

You're sure got to keep the top of the ridge," Shorty shouted at him as he boat quickened in the quickening current and took the head of the rapids.

Kit nodded, swayed his strength and weight tentatively on the steering gear and headed the boat for the plunge.

Several minutes later, half swamped and lying against the bank in the eddy below the White Horse, Shorty spat out a mouthful of tobacco juice and shook Kit's hand.

"At the top of the bank they met Breck. His wife stood at a little distance. Kit shook his hand.

"I'm afraid your boat can't make it," he said. "It is smaller than ours and a bit cranky."

The man pulled out a roll of bills. "I'll give you each a hundred if you run it through."

Kit looked out and up the tossing mane of the White Horse. A long, gray twilight was falling. It was turning colder, and the landscape seemed taking on a savage bleakness.

"It ain't that," Shorty was saying. "We don't want your money. But my partner is the real meat with boats, and when he says your ain't safe I reckon he knows what he's talkin' about."

Kit added affirmation and chanced to glance at Mrs. Breck. Her eyes were fixed on him, and he knew that if ever he had seen prayer in a woman's eyes he was seeing it then. Shorty followed his gaze and saw what he saw. They looked at each other in confusion and did not speak. Moved by the common impulse, they needed to each other and turned to the trail that led to the head of the rapids.

Breck had they shored Breck's boat out from the bank and caught the first rough water when the waves began to lap at it. They were small waves, but it was an earnest of what was to come.

The rapids grew stiffer, and the spray began to fly. In the gathering darkness Kit glimpsed the mane and the crooked fling of the current into it. He worked into this crooked current and felt a glow of satisfaction as the boat hit the head of the mane square. In the middle. After that, in the smother, leaping and burying and swamping, he had no clear impression of anything save that he swung his weight on the steering oar.

They emerged breathless, wet through, the boat filled with water almost to the gunwale. Lighter pieces of baggage and outfit were floating inside the boat. A few careful strokes on Shorty's part worked the boat into the draw of the eddy, and the eddy did the rest till the boat softly touched the bank.

Looking down from above was Mrs. Breck. Her prayer had been answered, and the tears were streaming down her cheeks.

"You boys have simply got to take the money," Breck called down to them.

Shorty stood up, slipped and slid down in the water, while the boat dipped one gunwale under and righted again.

"Dern the money," said Shorty. "Fetch out that whisky. Now that it's over I'm gettin' cold feet, an' I'm sure likely to have a chill."

The trail by water crossed Lake La Barge. Here was no fast current, but a tideless stretch of forty miles which must be rowed unless a fair wind blew. But the time for fair wind was past, and an icy gale blew in their teeth out of the north. This made a rough sea, against which it was almost impossible to pull the boat. Added to their troubles was driving snow; also the freezing of the water on their oar blades kept one man occupied in chopping it off with a hatchet. Compelled to take their turn at the oars, Sprague and Stine patiently loafed.

At the end of three hours Sprague pulled his oar in and said they would run back into the mouth of the river for shelter. Stine seconded him, and the several hard won miles were lost. A second day, and a third, the same fruitless attempt was made. The freezeup was very imminent.

"We could make it if they had the souls of clams," Kit told Shorty as they dried their mecessaries by the fire on the evening of the third day. "We could have made it today if they hadn't turned back. Another hour's work would have fetched that west shore. They're—they're babes in the woods."

Shorty debated a moment. "Look here, Smoke. It's hundreds of miles to Dawson. If we don't want to freeze in here we've got to do something. If we're goin' to Dawson we got to take charge of this now outfit."

forgot, a few minutes later was found coated with half an inch of ice. At 8 o'clock, when Sprague and Stine, already rolled in their blankets, were sleeping the sleep of exhaustion, Kit came back from a look at the boat.

"It's the freezeup, Shorty," he announced. "There's a skin of ice over the whole pond already. The rapid current of the river may keep it open for days. This time tomorrow any boat caught in Lake Labarge remains there until next year."

"You mean we got to get out to night? Now?"

Kit nodded.

"Tumble out, you sleepers," was Shorty's answer, couched in a roar, as he began casting off the guy ropes of the tent.

They broke their way through the thin ice in the little harbor and came out on the lake, where the water, heavy and glassy, froze on their oars with every stroke. The water soon became like mush, clogging the stroke of the oars and freezing in the air even as it dipped. Later the surface began to form a skin, and the boat proceeded slower and slower.

Often afterward, when Kit tried to remember that night and failed to bring up aught but nightmare recollections, he wondered what must have been the sufferings of Stine and Sprague. His one impression of himself was that he struggled through biting frost and intolerable exertion for a thousand years, more or less.

Morning found them stationary. Stine complained of frosted fingers, and Sprague of his nose, while the pain in Kit's cheeks and nose told him that he, too, had been touched. With each accretion of daylight they could see farther, and as far as they could see was icy surface. The water of the lake was gone.

A hundred yards away was the shore of the north end. Shorty insisted that it was the opening of the river and that he could see water. He and Kit alone were able to work, and with their oars they broke the ice and forced the boat along. And at the last gasp of their strength they made the suck of the rapid river. One look back showed them several boats which had hopelessly frozen in; then they whirled around a bend in a current running six miles an hour.

Day by day they floated down the swift river, and day by day the shore ice extended farther out. When they made camp at nightfall they chopped a space in the ice in which to moor the boat and carried the camp outfit hundreds of feet to shore. In the morning they chopped the boat out through the new ice and caught the current. Shorty set up the sheet iron stove in the boat, and over this Stine and Sprague hung through the long drifting hours. They had surrendered, no longer gave orders, and their one desire was to gain Dawson.

The last night ashore was spent between the mouths of the White river and the Stewart. At daylight they found the Yukon, half a mile wide, running white from ice rimmed bank to ice rimmed bank.

"We'll be the last boat this year to make Dawson," Kit said.

"But they ain't no water, Smoke."

"Then we'll ride the ice down. Come on."

Futelly, protesting, Sprague and Stine were bundled on board. For half an hour with axes Kit and Shorty struggled to cut a way into the swift but solid stream. When they did succeed in clearing the shore ice the floating ice forced the boat along the edge for a hundred yards, tearing away half of one gunwale and making a partial wreck of it. Then at the lower end of the bend they caught the current that flung off shore.

They proceeded to work farther toward the middle. The stream was no longer composed of mush ice, but of hard cakes. In between the cakes only was mush ice that froze solidly as they looked at it. Shoving with the oars against the cakes, sometimes climbing out on the cakes in order to force the boat along, after an hour they gained the middle.

Five minutes after they ceased their exertions the boat was frozen in. The whole river was conglutinating as it ran. Cakes froze to cake until at last the boat was the center of a cake seventy-five feet in diameter. Sometimes they floated sideways, sometimes stern first, while gravity tore asunder the forming fetters in the moving mass, only to be manacled by faster forming ones.

Night came, and after many efforts they gave up the attempt to force the boat to shore, and through the darkness they drifted helplessly onward.

Their speed began to diminish and cakes of ice to upend and crash and smash about them. The river was jamming. One cake, forced upward, slid across their cake and carried one side of the boat away. It did not sink, for its own cake still upheld it, but in a while they saw dark water show for an instant within a foot of them. Then all movement ceased.

At the end of half an hour the whole river picked itself up and began to move. This continued for an hour, when again it was brought to rest by a jam. Once again it started, running swiftly and savagely, with a great grinding. Then they saw lights ashore, and when abreast gravity and the Yukon surrendered, and the river ceased for six months.

For three days Kit and Shorty labored—carrying the ton and a half outfit from the middle of the river to the log cabin Stine and Sprague had bought on the hill overlooking Dawson. This work finished, in the warm cabin as twilight was falling Sprague motioned Kit to him. Outside the thermometer registered 65 below zero.

"Your full month isn't up, Smoke," Sprague said. "But here it is to full. I wish you luck."

"How about the agreement?" Kit asked. "You know there's a famine here. You agreed—"

"I know of no agreement," Sprague interrupted. "Do you, Stine? We've"

Clean Up and Paint Up

In a tenement district lived a family surrounded by filth and dirt. The whole atmosphere of the little room which they called "home" was one of hopeless depression and squalor. To prove the power of suggestion, a good woman placed on the table a miniature statue of the Venus of Milo. Against this grimy background of dirt and wretchedness, the Venus shone out in all her whiteness and purity, elevating and brightening her strange surroundings. The good woman called a week later and found that the place had been cleaned up, the dirt had been washed away and a pathetic but sincere attempt at decoration had been made—the subtle influence was effective.

If the homes in a neighborhood become weather-beaten and shabby, values in the whole neighborhood deteriorate. But if some house-owner paints and brightens up his home, it radiates its attractiveness in every direction and soon the whole neighborhood is made bright and attractive.

SENATOR BURKE ON CREW LAW

Railroad Men Think Former Conductor Made Poor Showing.

Pittsburgh, April 13.

Among railroad employees here the general impression is that Senator William J. Burke in his statement on behalf of the railroad trainmen, as handed to members of the Legislature on the Full Crew—excess man crew—Laws, did not make much of a case.

Particularly is it questioned what good for his side the former Baltimore & Ohio Railroad conductor could have expected from his attempt to ridicule Superintendent Phillips, of the Lackawanna Railroad, by quoting him as saying that that company had 10 per cent. grades. As a matter of fact, Mr. Phillips made no such statement, even as a slip of the tongue, but did refer to a grade of 75 feet to the mile, which is but a mere 1 1/2 per cent.

It is also pointed out that Senator Burke himself in questioning Mr. Phillips asked concerning operating conditions on such grade of 75 feet, not of 75 per cent.

It is understood that Senator Burke will be one of the chief speakers for the retention of the Full Crew Law when the Baldwin Bill shall reach the senate. Not a few are questioning whether he has not gotten out of touch with the practical operation of railroads since giving up even the one-day-a-year service which for a long time kept him as an employee of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The above article is furnished by the railroads in their efforts for the repeal of the Full Crew Bill.

Potted Plants.

When potted plants put a piece of coarse muslin over the hole in the pot before putting in the bits of stone and soil, which keeps the drainage good. The muslin prevents the earth from washing away.

The Amusing Part of It.

"Wasn't that funny story you laughed at rather old?" "Yes. But the man who told it was so important and dignified that his condescension in telling any kind of a funny story struck me as highly amusing."

Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look

Physician's Prescription For Indigestion

Important for All Those Who Suffer After Eating.

If you suffer from indigestion after eating and find that instead of the one little peepin or soda pill you used to take, it now needs two or three to stop it, it's time you called a halt and did some hard thinking.

The plain truth is that there are thousands of men and women in this country whose stomachs are dead or lying from lack of exercise while they themselves still live.

Years ago a famous physician wrote the prescription for Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets and thousands owe their very life to them to-day. Most stomach remedies work on the food and digest it. Mi-o-na works on the stomach and digests nothing. Mi-o-na Tablets strengthen the stomach walls, stimulate the stomach muscles and vitalize the stomach machinery into instant and normal action. The People's Drug Store and many other leading druggists hereabouts sell Mi-o-na Tablets, agreeing to refund money in any case where it does not bring complete relief. If your own druggist thinks this well of Mi-o-na you surely ought to try it.

COMMITTEE O. K.'S LOCAL OPTION BILL

Brumbaugh Measure to Go to House This Afternoon.

BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT

Special Order Will Be Made For Second
Reading of Bill Tomorrow
When Real Fight Opens.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 14.—The Williams local option bill, with the county unit, the bill backed by Governor Brumbaugh, was affirmatively recommended by the house law and order committee.

The committee was in session less than ten minutes. Practically every member was present, and when Mr. Cromer, of Allegheny county, moved that the bill be reported out, it was seconded by Mr. Flynn, of Elk, one of the "wets," and every one voted for the motion. There was no discussion.

It is understood that Mr. Vicker, of Allegheny, who has been active in handling the campaign in behalf of the governor, will be given the bill to report out. It will probably be reported this afternoon.

A special order will be made for consideration of the bill on second reading tomorrow morning, when the fight will be concentrated. The action of the committee was with the best of feeling, something that has not been noticed about it for some time. Every one appeared glad to get the bill started, after the many weeks of maneuvering on the outside.

In addition to reporting the Williams bill, the committee agreed to report out the Hagerty firearms sale bill, which would provide stringent regulations. It has many amendments, and the members want to see it printed. The committee will meet next week to clean up the numerous other bills in its possession.

There is said to be a difference of opinion among the opponents of the Williams local option bill as to whether a vote should be forced on second reading. Some of the leaders believe it would be better not to risk a vote until the final reading, and then trust everything to one final swoop.

Others think it would be better to try a test vote on second reading, so that pressure might be brought to bear on any who were seen to be wavering in their opposition to the measure.

The liquor men openly assert that Governor Brumbaugh cannot muster more than 85 votes for the bill. Privately they are said to believe that 72 will be the limit of its support. They are said to be estimating a vote of 85 to lure the supporters of the bill into over-confidence in their strength, although 104 votes are required to pass it.

Various local option leaders are planning a series of demonstrations for the latter end of the week to impress legislators over the week-end with the seriousness of the fight for the bill. A number of the leaders are coming to Harrisburg to watch the progress of the bill in its crucial stages and to keep an eye on the recording of the vote.

NO PEACE TERMS SENT TO THE U. S.

President Says There is No
Basis For Report.

Washington, April 14.—Commenting on a published statement of Pope Benedict that the latter had indicated a desire to support any move the United States might make for peace, President Wilson declared that intimations of this character had been frequently conveyed to him through different persons. He said, however, no formal communication had come to him on the subject.

Asked whether the United States recently had learned officially or unofficially of the terms upon which the belligerents might be ready to make peace, the president said regretfully there had been no basis whatever so far as he knew for the rumors to that effect.

No Basis For Peace Reports.

Rome, April 14.—Information obtained from the highest German sources in this city is to the effect that there is absolutely no basis for the report that peace negotiations under certain conditions are being considered in Berlin. These reports, it is said, are based upon ignorance of actual conditions in the German empire. The assertion is made that both Germany and Austria, particularly the former, have within their borders supplies of everything necessary to prolong the war indefinitely.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

DELICIOUS PEANUT DISHES.

PEANUTS are being used more and more in this country not only as a confection, but in the cuisine as well. Here are some recipes to try for the menu.

Cream Peanut Soup.

Take one quart of milk, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, a dash of paprika and white pepper, one cupful of ground peanuts, a bayleaf and a little chopped celery and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Heat the milk with the bayleaf and then thicken it with the cornstarch rubbed smooth in a little cold milk. Add the peanuts and celery and strain. Serve very hot.

Peanut Loaf.

Take two cupfuls of rice and add one cupful of ground peanuts rubbed to smoothness with butter, one cupful of cracker crumbs, two beaten eggs and one-half cupful of milk. Mix all the ingredients thoroughly, leaving out some of the cracker crumbs. Mold into loaf shape and cover with these crumbs. Brown in a buttered baking pan.

Peanut Salad.

Take one pound of fresh roasted peanuts and one head of crisp lettuce. Wash the lettuce and crisp it in the refrigerator. Halve the nuts and pile them in the leaves of lettuce. Dress with French dressing.

Peanut Float.

Chop one cupful of peanuts; then heat one quart of milk, to which add four eggs well beaten with one cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of cornstarch. When the custard is thick and smooth remove it from the fire and flavor with vanilla. Cool and pour over small sponge cakes that are stale. Top with whipped cream mixed with the peanuts.

Peanut Macaroons.

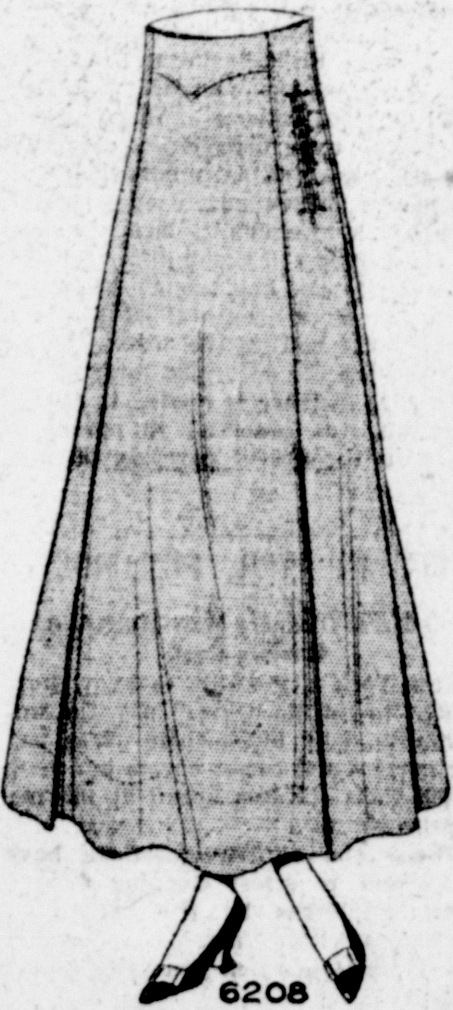

Beat the whites of two eggs stiff. Add one cupful of confectioner's sugar, one tablespoonful of prepared flour and one cupful of peanuts. Drop in spoonfuls on a buttered tin and bake brown.

ATTACK MADE ON LEGISLATORS

Labor Leader Hurls Diatribe
After Visit to State
Capitol.

Harrisburg, April 13.

Members of the State Legislature both Senators and Representatives are anything but pleased by the diatribe against their capacity and intelligence which appeared in "The Scrantonian," written by Steve McDonald, news editor of that paper and president of the Scranton Central Labor Union. In part, he says:

"There are many human beings in both houses who should be engaged in more useful work, and who are by nature better adapted for other work than making laws or assisting in the making of laws. Indeed, it would not be an unfair declaration to say that a good percentage of those who are now seated in the house of representatives are about as fit, mentally and otherwise, to fill the chairs they fill as a bull is to occupy the pedestal of honor in a china shop."

"The house is bad enough, the Lord knows, but the senate is a regular clutter box."

"There does not appear to be a desire on the part of any of the so-called representatives of the people to get down to real work. There is more attention paid to social events, hobnobbing with politicians and lobbyists, and making dates with other people."

"Spindleshanked atoms strutted about the capitol as if they owned half the earth, and when they were approached by men working in the interests of the workers and wealth-producers of the state, these atoms swelled up with pride, placed their thumbs in their vest pockets—the upper pockets—and then rocked to and fro on their heels, while they took on that wise look that only ignorance can generate."

Helping the Small Store Keeper

Because of his neighborhood limitations it is hard for the small storekeeper to advertise.

But he can make the manufacturer's newspaper advertising a splendid means to draw business.

This advertising in the newspapers makes the goods familiar to the people in the storekeeper's neighborhood.

They will want to get them and they will go to the store that sells them.

When the small storekeepers show the brands the manufacturer is exploiting at the time the advertising appears in the newspapers, they bring business their way.

The effort does not increase their expense a penny and it adds pleasantly to their volume of business.

Wooltex Tailored Suits and Coats in Fullest and Finest Assortments now

It is most gratifying to make the important selection of a new spring suit or coat while our collections of Wooltex garments are at their height; for naturally we cannot undertake to keep continuously in stock such a large variety of models as is now on exhibition.

Suit No. 1720

THE picture illustrates Wooltex suit No. 1720—a very effective youthful model, which is equally becoming to all slender women. The jacket is in Polo effect, moderately full, with smart pockets on both jacket and skirt. Materials are checks, poplin and covert.

Every day you wait shortens the time of service which the new garment will give you, and likewise every day you wait takes off something of the enjoyment of possessing the new styles while they are at their height.

Women who have been to see the Wooltex exhibition express their delight over the moderateness of the prices that are marked on garments of such excellence and refinement.

The hand-tailoring at the vital points in the apparel, which gives permanency to the shapeliness of the garment, is a Wooltex feature of added cost in the production, which it seems amazing to secure at such moderate prices.

If you have not yet seen our full spring exhibition of Wooltex garments, come at the first moment you can, whether you anticipate buying or not. An equally hearty welcome if you come only to see the new styles.

The Store That Sells Wooltex

A Happy Discovery

By RUTH GRAHAM

John Mason, a young man of fortune, devoted a great deal of his time and money to charitable work. He visited hospitals and not only inquired into things needed, but sat down beside patients, asked what he could do for them and occasionally chatted with one familiarly.

Mason was a man of liberal education and literary tastes. There was an old gentleman named Gorham in whom the young man became interested. Gorham having been in his younger days a publisher when magazines were exponents of literary productions and not advertising mediums, Gorham had collected the writings of literary lights who flourished in the earlier part of the nineteenth century and had many interesting stories to tell concerning authors. To these Mason listened with great relish.

Gorham had in those days been wealthy and at the time of his greatest prosperity had ridden to and from his office. He had a good wife, but one thing he had not, children. The husband was so engrossed in his business that he did not miss the absence of offspring so much as his wife, who longed for a child and would not be comforted without one. Finally with her husband's consent she went to a foundling asylum and took therefrom a baby boy.

The clothing in which the child had been received was of the finest texture, and there was every indication that he had been born of refined parents. He was adopted by the Gorhams and brought up as their son, taking the name of his foster father, Henry Gorham. He became the idol of his foster mother, who lavished every attention upon him.

When the boy was becoming old enough to be of still more interest to the Gorhams he suddenly disappeared. His nurse one morning left him on the porch in front of the house for a few minutes and when she returned he was gone. The foster parents spent no end of money to find him, but received no trace of him. The blow almost killed Mrs. Gorham. Her husband begged her to adopt another child, but she would not. Little Harry had wound himself around her heart and she would not, or rather felt that she could not, replace him with another.

In time misfortune came to the Gorhams. Henry Gorham, not content with his success in the publishing business, launched forth in various speculations. For a time he was successful; then several of them collapsed at once. His publishing business was carried down with them, and from affluence he and his wife fell into poverty. Then came old age, when men have neither the strength nor daring to begin anew. And lastly Henry Gorham fell ill with a lingering disease.

An old friend, an author, whom Gorham had launched on a successful career by his appreciation of his literary works and who had accumulated a small fortune provided an income for the old couple, which was barely sufficient to keep them in a small home and provide them with food and clothing. When Gorham fell ill he needed medical attendance and nursing, which he could get only at a hospital. He was removed to one, and his benefactor paid the additional expense.

One day John Mason on calling at the hospital found his old friend in great mental misery. The man who had been paying his way had died and denied, and his widow had refused to continue his benefaction. Mason offered to stand in the place of the benefactor. His offer was a great relief to the invalid, who asked him to go and see his wife and tell her the good news.

Mason had not happened to meet Mrs. Gorham when she had called to see her husband. He decided to see the old man's request and, visiting the lady in her humble abode, begged her not to worry, assuring her that he would contribute the income she and her husband had been receiving.

From the moment Mason entered Mrs. Gorham's presence her eyes were fixed upon his with a singular expression. He accompanied his offer with a smile, which intensified this look on the old lady's face. Throwing up her hands and her eyes at the same time she exclaimed:

"Oh, heavens, how like Harry!"

Naturally Mason asked who was Harry and was told for the first time the story of her lost foster son. Mason listened with an interest far more intense than might have been expected. At the end of his recital he said musingly:

"Can it be possible that?"

He paused and on being asked to finish said that his mother had married without her father's consent. When a baby he had been left at a foundling asylum. His grandfather, after his father's and mother's death, which had occurred in quick succession, had traced him to the home and from there to the people who had adopted him. Fearing that he would not be given up, the grandfather employed persons to kidnap him.

Mason had no sooner told his story before he was clasped in his foster mother's arms.

The next day there was a great change in the condition of the Gorhams. They were removed to John Mason's home, where they received every comfort, attention and luxury. For John Mason had inherited a large fortune from his grandfather, which he lavished on them without stint.

Cured. "Skinny"—I want to interest you in a mining proposition. It's a good thing. "Flubdub"—Perhaps it is, but I'm not."—Judge.

Divided Words.

1. Divide something borne or carried and get a prickly seed vessel and the home of a wild animal.
2. Divide a mark to be shot at and get a dark liquid obtained from resinous liquids and a verb meaning to obtain.
3. Divide a Scotch plaid fabric and get the same liquid and a yellowish brown color.
4. Divide a waterproof canvas and get the same liquid, a boy's name and a preposition.
5. Divide to upset and get a covering for the head and a word meaning magnitude or bulk.
6. Divide a kind of primrose which grows in wet places and get a useful domestic animal and something one is likely to do if one tries to walk on the ice.
7. Divide a title of nobility and get a piece of wood or metal long in proportion to its width and a preposition.

Kite Flying Contest.

This game is interesting and exciting for those who take an interest in kite flying. It is necessary to have one or more persons to act as judges. Anybody may enter a kite. The decision is based upon the length of time required to get the kite into the air, the elevation attained, the steadiness with which the kite maintains its position or makes the ascent, and any other points agreed upon. This contest is sometimes varied by having only two contestants at one time; each is allowed to arm his string with any weapons he chooses. The object is to maneuver the kite so as to cut the opponent's string in two and thus to bring down his kite. This permits of a very high degree of skill in constructing the kite, choosing the weapon and maneuvering to get the opponent in a good position for attack.—Country Gentleman.

When Lost in the Woods.

A contributor to the Farm and Fireside calls attention to the following things which anybody lost in the woods ought to know:

"I thought every woodsman and guide knew that by going downhill you are sure to come upon a stream of water, which will in turn lead to a settlement. Furthermore, in our day nearly everybody depends on a watch instead of 'sighting the sun.' When the hour hand points toward the sun the point midway between the hour hand and 12 o'clock will be due south.

"Another little woodcraft trick is that of carrying a supply of matches in a large mouthed bottle. When fitted with a tight cork the matches are sure to be kept dry even though you have to swim a stream with your clothes on."

Rabbit and Snake.

A naturalist relates that he once saw a gray rabbit attack a large black snake which was holding one of her young in its coils. She fought by springing over the snake and striking back with her hind feet, which is the usual mode of defense of this species. Her blows were delivered with force and precision, and so rapidly that the snake was struck nearly every time despite his attempts to evade them. As she passed the snake aimed at her with his fangs, but though he often scratched off a mouthful of hair he was plainly getting the worst of the battle, when the naturalist interfered.

Another instance is related in which a rabbit was observed to pursue a hawk in the act of carrying off her young.

CITY IN PAUL PRY ROLE.

Asks Street Cleaners How Much Wives' Garters Cost.

New York city wants to know how much its "white wings" pay for undershirts, how much their wives pay for garters and corset covers and how much their children spend at moving picture shows.

These and similar questions have been sent to street cleaning department employees by the bureau of standards with forms for replies and the request, "See that you answer carefully."

WOMEN POLL BIG VOTE IN CHICAGO ELECTION.

Did Not Affect City's Mayoral Choice, Anti-suffragists Assert.

Anti-suffragists deny that the women's vote was the controlling factor in the sensational mayoralty election in Chicago, in which William Hale Thompson, Republican, obtained a plurality of 140,000, the greatest in the history of the city, over Robert M. Sweitzer, the Democratic candidate. The suffragists claim the victory as theirs.

There were no fewer than 282,000 registered women voters, and the election was the largest experiment in women suffrage yet tried in this country in a municipal contest. The outcome was watched with interest the world over.

But, while it is believed that 60 per cent of the women voted for Mr. Thompson, it is claimed that he also had 60 per cent of the men voters in his favor. Consequently it is asserted that the result would have been the same without the women's vote. The women say they swung the men and produced the victory.

The campaign sizzled with charges of fraud. Local bitterness reached such a high point that at least one election shooting was recorded.

With the first flash of the landslide for Thompson the Republicans began to shout for 1916 and hailed the result of the mayoralty election as a reliable indication of what they hope will happen in the next national election.

Of the 282,000 women voters 243,549 went to the polls. This is the largest woman's vote so far. The largest previous poll in Chicago was last spring, when 164,026 women cast their ballots. Of the 243,549 women 136,920 voted Republican and 86,624 Democratic. At the primaries 58,764 women voted Republican and 93,873 Democratic.

ALARM CLOCK CURES HENS.

Farmer Tries Novel Scheme With Startling Success.

A writer in the Farm and Fireside declares that the surest cure for broody hens is an alarm clock. He says:

"Some years ago I was endeavoring to break up a sitting hen, but my efforts were in vain. Old Yaller continued to sit. Finally I took a small alarm clock and set it so it would go off in a few minutes. I placed it in one corner of her nest and watched. It went off. And so did Old Yaller. She left the nest and stood dazed for one horrified instant, and then, with one shrill squawk, she ran out of the henhouse and flew over the park fence and began to hunt for bugs in the grass.

"She not only stopped sitting, but she stopped clucking, and in a short time began to lay. I have since tried this method on more than 100 broody hens with complete success."

Concrete is Economical

SOME people have the idea that concrete construction is difficult and excessively expensive.

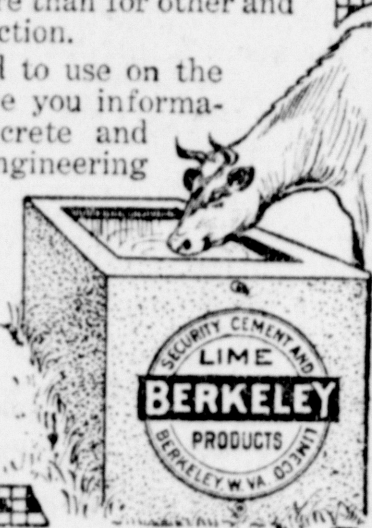

That is a mistake. Concrete is the easiest of all building materials to handle and the cost need not be more than for other and far less permanent types of construction.

Concrete is especially adapted to use on the farm. SECURITY dealers will give you information on the various uses of concrete and methods of handling it. Our Engineering Department is also at your service.
